

[0055] ABSTRACT

[0056] The present invention provides a method for determining an optimal dose range of a compound for a first investigational administration of that compound in a human. The method involves stochastic simulation of allometric parameters to produce outcome distributions that provide a basis for selecting an optimal dose range. The present invention also provides optimal doses of compounds under clinical evaluation in the first administration of such compounds to humans.